Q: How to manually add an action to listbox.selecteditems in VB.NET? So, in vb.net, I have a listbox.selecteditems in an updatepanel. Thats pretty much it. Now, if I click the listbox, when an item in the listbox is selected, it highlights the item, and the buttons "ok" and "cancel" below it. My question is this: is there a way to programmatically press the buttons to (for example) send an email in my form_Load event? I have a button on my form for this, and I was able to move that into the listbox event on it's own and it works fine. I was just wondering if I could do it programmatically and have it actually work, and not just draw the "cancel" button. A: Figured it out. In the listbox event, it's just a ListChanged event.

Me.ListBox.OnListChanged = New OnListChangedEventHandler(AddressOf SendingEmail) Then just the normal submit button: Private Sub SendEmail(ByVal sender As Object, ByVal e As EventArgs) SendEmail.Enabled = False Label28.Text = "Successfully sent an email to " & System.Net.Mail.SmtpClient.HOST & " port " &
System.Net.Mail.SmtpClient.Port & vbCrLf & vbCrLf & "" SendEmail.Enabled = True End Sub
